MARKET AND FUND REVIEW

Global share markets had a stellar February, with several indices trading to all-time highs, driven in part by the ongoing artificial intelligence (Al) boom, which dragged broader indices higher.

In the US, the S&P 500 rose 4.8%, while the NASDAQ 100 rose 6.2% - both were all time highs. All sectors delivered positive gains, with communication services and energy towards the top, while real estate struggled against the backdrop of higher bond yields.

European share markets also delivered strong gains with the Euro Stoxx 50 rising to a two-decade high, while the FTSE 100 hit an all-time high. Although European economies appear to be slowing, equities were in favour as the prospect of lower interest rates remains, while the energy sector – notably Shell and British Petroleum (BP) – continues to bolster returns.

Despite some record-setting performance globally, Australasian markets struggled in February, with the NZX 50 and the ASX 200 underperforming their global counterparts. In New Zealand, the NZX 50 fell 1.1%, with a handful of companies reporting earnings that missed expectations, while in Australia, the ASX 200 was able to edge out a small gain, rising 0.8% over the month. The comparative underperformance was partly due to weakness in the mining sector, which struggled against the backdrop of falling iron ore prices.

Global bonds were mostly lower for the second straight month as the prospect of early interest rate cuts subsided largely on the back of stronger-than-expected US economic data, while it was a similar story in Europe, with bonds ending the month lower. Despite some softer-than-expected inflation data across the continent, policymakers there pushed back against the idea of early interest rate cuts.

In New Zealand, bond prices had a volatile month, beginning on the back foot, following global markets lower. The sell-off continued after the employment report showed the labour market remained historically tight, likely to keep upward pressures of wages. However, after the Reserve Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) left interest rates unchanged and delivered a relatively dovish statement, bonds clawed back some losses.

We maintain our defensive position, holding an underweight to global equities and an overweight to domestic and international fixed interest. Our base case is that US Growth remains positive over the short term, with weaker growth in Europe and New Zealand. Labour market demand continues to soften bringing it more in line with labour supply. Core inflation makes slow progress towards target, with central banks holding rates in restrictive territory. Finally, an extended period of tight monetary policy eventually weighs on growth enough to tip it into negative territory, consistent with a mild recession.
